"SULPHOLINE LOTION." A N External Means of CURING SKIN A DISEASES. There is scarcely any cruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy, natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s. 9d. Made only by J. Perfer & Co., London.

This Standard Work on the Chinese Language, constructed on the basis of Kanghi's Imperial Dictionary, contains all Chinese characters in practical use, and while alpha-betically arranged according to the sounds of the oldest dialect of China, the Cantonese, it gives also the Mandarin pronunciation of all characters explained in the book, so that its usefulness is by no means confined to the Cantonese Dialect, but the work is a practically complete Thesaurus of the whole Written Language of China, auciont and modern, as used all over the Empire, whilst its introductory chapters serve the purposes of a philological guide to the student.

A Supplement, arranged for being bound and used by itself, and containing a List of the Radicals, an Index, and a List of Surnames, will be published and sold separately.

The danger is not so much that England and the United States will, come to hostilities over the instter, as of the Conservative party on the basis of that it may give rise to a bitter dispute popular representation. between the two nations which may seriously wound and check the good feeling now existing between the two peoples. We can only trust that the sound sense and friendship of the two Governments will enable a compromise 'er Hadoong, at 3.30 p.m., on Monday, of some kind to be effected, whereby neither the interests of either country will suffer, nor the flow of good feeling between them be interrupted.

Most of our readers have probably already a pretty clear idea of the matter in dispute. In 1880, when M. de Lesseps went to the United States and laid before the American people his exciting scheme for cutting the waterway, the President thought it necessary BRISBANE, SYDNEY, to send to the Congress a message, in which he stated that any canal made through the territory of Colombo must be subject to the control of the United States. garded by the United States Government as an uncalled-for intrasion into a field where the local and general interests of the United States must be considered before those of any other Power. It is with respect to the political control of the Canal, as distinguished from its merely administrative or commercial regulation, that the American Government is chiefly concerned. According to Mr Blaine's letter, his Government, in time of peace, does not seek to have any exclusive privileges accorded to American ships in respect to precedence or tolls through the Canal? Other passages in the letter read as follow :---

During any war in which the United States or Colombia might be a party, the passage of the armed vessels of a hostile nation through the Canal would be no more. admissible than the passage of the armed forces of a hostile nation over the railway lines joining the Atlantic and the Pacific shores of the United States or Colombia; and the United States will insist upon their right to take all needful procautions against the possibility of the Isthmus transit being in any event used offensively against their interests upon land or upon sea. Any attempt to supersede that guarantee (the treaty between the United States and Colombia) by an agreement between the European Powers, which maintain vast armies and patrol the sea with immonse fleets, and whose interest in the Canal and its operations can never be so vital and supreme as ours, would partake of the nature of an alliance against the United States, and would be regarded by this Government as an indication of an unfriendly feeling.

The foregoing extracts state the broad outlines of the claims of the United States. No doubt the securing of the neutrality of the canal merely by a 736 treaty between the United States and Colombia practically means that the neutrality of this important water-way would be left in the hands of the Government of the former country. The rights of the feeble little South American republic in securing the heutrality of the canal would, in the event of a war in which the United States were engaged, prove to be of the most shadowy nature. Admitting that vital interests of the United States are bound up in the canal, England also can claim important interests in its control. She has her possessions lying north, south, east and west of the Isthmus-possessions as vast in area as the United 7 p.m. as is practicable, and it should States themselves. In advancing the treaty with Colombia as the basis of the pretensions of his Government, Mr Blaine avoided all mention of another treaty in which the United States admitted the right of England to have a voice in the control of interoceanic communication between North and South America. The state of affairs in Peking is, as far as I can judge, reassuring. I notice that in one of your recent articles you Warned your readers not to be surprised if news of somewhat alarming nature reached you before everything was settled, and you were right. It may be so temporarily when Admiral Courbet and the French fleet get here, but I do not believe that the situation even then will be dangerous. Neither the Empress, the Seventh Prince, nor the Vicercy will attempt to face the foreign troops, flushed with victories in Tonquin nor, indeed, has Li the army at his disposal to do so. The largest number of men he could put in the flold would be ten thousand, and he would not venture to risk the exasperation of the Empress by a defeat. A stroke of the Vermilion Pencil would deprive Li of four-fifths of his supporters; besides which, as we all know, a large proportion of the Chinese are his secret or avowed enemies, and the Empress knows his value to the State too well to break with him without the strongest provocation. I therefore say No War, and you will see that my prediction is verified.

THE ORIENTAL BANK.

(N. C. D. News.) We are sure that the news of the sus appearance of a well known landmark from business life. Branches had been established in Cantor. and Hongkong before 1845, when the change in the designation of the Bank was intimated in the Hongkong papers. An agency was opened here about 1850-51, and the Bank was the first to offer banking facilities to merchants. These were for many years confined to dealing in exchange. In one of the occasional market reports which appeared in the N.-C. Herald of the latter years, we find the Oriental Bank's bills quoted at 4s. 11., while credits ranged at from 4s. 11d., to os. per dollar. In August 1851 a Royal Charter was obtained, and the Oriental Bank became the Oriental Bank Corporation. The business of the new bank was extended to Australia soon afterwards. and in later times to South Africa, with results that proved most unfortunate for the Bank. But for a great many years the Oriental Bank Corporation held a position in India and China, such as was possessed by no other similar institution. Its paper was saleable at better rates than could be obtained at the same time by its rivals, and it had many other advantages over them.

NO, THANK YOU, TOM. They met, when they were girl and boy, Going to school one day, And 'Won't you take my peg-top, dear ! Was all that he could say. She bit her little pinafore, Close to his side she came,

She whispered, 'No! no, thank you, Tom

But took it all the same.

They met one day, the self-same way, When ten swift years had flown; He said, 'I've nothing but my heart, But that is yours alone. And won't you take my heart I' he said And called her by her name; She blushed, and said, 'No, thank you, Tom. But took it all the same.

And twenty, thirty, forty years Have brought them care and joy; She has the little peg-top still He gave her when a boy. 'I've had no wealth, sweet wife, says he; 'I've never brought you fame. She whispers, 'No, no, thank you, Tom, You've loved me all the same.4

Say, what you got in your mouth, a base ball ? asked the grocery-man of the had boy, as he came in the store with both cheeks sticking out, and looking red. 'I'll , bet-you have got your mouth full of benzine, or something, and you are going to play some joke on me by squirting it on the stove.

"Well, it was in the Sunday-school lesson,' said the boy, 'and my teacher said it person to be able to turn the other cheek when enote on one cheek. I asked him if people ever did that, and he said our best citizens did. He said it required a great deal of patience, but a person should always turn the other check also. I asked pa about it, and pa said the teacher was right, and that it was the duty of every citizen to turn the other cheek when smote on one cheek, and he should always do so. Well, sir, I want to be good, and I just longed for somebody to smite me on one cheek so I could turn the other also, but it seemed as though the smiters were not on the war path, and for two days I had to go around without being smote. But Wednesday afternoon I was down by the theatre, where they were having a matinec, and there was a lot of boys sliding on a smooth piece of ice in the gutter, and I rushed on to slide, and I run against a boy, and he hauled off and lainmed me on this check. (), gosh, but I did see stars. Um: But didn't he smite. was going to pick up a froze cat that was in the street, and hit him, when I happened to think of turning the other check, and I turned my face towards him, and he gave me another, right here. O! O! But it was 10 times bigger than the other smote, and I guess it made me crazy. Anyway, I shall plead insanity to get out of it.

'Get out of what!' asked the grocery-'You don't have to get out of any. thing. If he hit you a couple of times, and you stood it, you don't have to get out of

'Yes, but I didn't stand it,' said the boy, receipt of draft as he felt of his swelled cheek. 'When he hit me that last rap, it knocked all the meckness and pious out of me, and I went at him and we had an awful tight. He wouldn't turn his other cheek, cause I guess he was a heathen, that never went to Sunday-school, so I turned his other check for him and I warmed him so he hollered enough. But I was sorry afterwards, and felt as though I would be ashamed to meet pa or my teacher. So I thought I would see how those good men would stand being smote, and I found a feller who wanted to earn two shillings, and I hired him to smote pa and the teacher, just to see how they would turn the other cheek. But when the fellow hit pa, pa turned and lammed the fellow right in the ear, and then yelled for a policeman, but my hired man got out of the way. That night pa said he had a narrow escape from being sand-bagged, and I asked him if he turned the other check also, and he said not if he knowed it. I don't think this is the right kind of a climate for turning the other cheek when you are smote, do you?

looked at the boy's swelled cheeks, 'it is hard to make a rule that will apply in all kinds of cases. The idea is a good one, to turn the other cheek, but we are apt to forget, especially if on a casual inspection of the smiter we think we can whip him, or if he is so small that his smiting does not hurt. But when a man deliberately belts me in the jaw, and dislocates it. I immediately think that one jaw is enough to have fractured at once. I guess when that smiting business became the custom, and people turned the other check, they didn't strike from the shoulder the way they do now-a-days. I think the best way is to put up your arms and ward off the blow. and try to reason with the smiter, and if he insists on smiting, sort of accidentally cuff him in the nose. That brings a smiter to his senses about as quick as anything. And so your pa didn't practise what he preached, ch?
